

ROBERT RYAN FOR ASSAULT AND BATTERY

of Thomas Ryan and James Thompson, of This City.

HEIR ALIBI IGNORED.

Now Serving Twelve Years in a Massachusetts Penitentiary.

Two New York citizens, who can prove an alibi by from forty to fifty witnesses, are locked up in the penitentiary at Charlestown, Mass., where they are serving terms of twelve years each for burglary, although the real culprit has confessed. A determined effort is now on foot to induce Governor Wolcott, of Massachusetts, to pardon them. The men have already served nearly two years for the alleged offence and both have large families.

The prisoners are: Thomas F. Ryan, of No. 151 Madison street, and James Thompson, of No. 208 Fulton street. They were arrested in this city in November, 1895, and charged with the burglary of the post office at Webster, Worcester County, Mass. At that time Ryan was employed in a cafe at No. 23 Chatham square, and Thompson was a dealer in fish in the Fulton Market. The burglary took place on the night of October 31, 1895. Not only were the stamps and cards of the office taken, but likewise several bonds of the Webster Water Lien Company, belonging to Mr. Love, the postmaster. These bonds are what caused Ryan and Thompson all their trouble.

Ryan alleged that a woman, whom he afterward could not find, had given him the papers with the request that he dispose of them for her. The woman then told Thompson, his friend, and the latter asked Frederick Kleckner to sell them. The broker, to prove the bonds, wrote to Webster, and learned that they had been stolen. When he heard he was being looked for Thompson gave himself up, and Ryan was also taken into custody. Both positively declared their innocence and told the detective that they had never been in Webster and, in fact had not known of the existence of such a place.

Both men were indicted, tried in Worcester, Mass., before Judge Sherman and a jury. Ryan was found guilty and sentenced to twelve years in the State Prison. Thompson was found guilty and sentenced to twelve years in the State Prison. Both men were indicted, tried in Worcester, Mass., before Judge Sherman and a jury. Ryan was found guilty and sentenced to twelve years in the State Prison. Thompson was found guilty and sentenced to twelve years in the State Prison.

The principal testimony against the prisoner was that of two witnesses, who declared that they had seen two men who looked like Ryan and Thompson in Webster on the afternoon of October 31. The jurors were out five hours, when the judge threatened to lock them up for the night if they did not soon arrive at a verdict. They rendered a verdict of guilty of burglary half an hour afterward.

COPELAND'S RIDGES WITH A BEAR.

Bruin Does Better Than a Horse on a Country Road.

TANGLED IN THE SPOKES.

While He Swung the Bicycle About the Girl Climbed a Tree.

Woodford, Vt., Oct. 23.—Miss Jessie Loughran, of Jersey City, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James Davis, near this place, recently had a thrilling adventure with a large black bear.

Miss Loughran is an enthusiastic wheelwoman, and when she came from Jersey City she brought her bicycle with her. She is a very attractive little woman, has thick nut-brown hair, expressive eyes and a plump face, much tanned by exposure to noxious Vermont winds and burning sun.

Miss Loughran left home rather early the other morning, and was about five miles distant from her aunt's house when she decided to return home. The morning was bright and beautiful, and she rode along at an easy pace.

She had not gone far on the return trip when she heard the sharp crack of a rifle. That is nothing unusual at this time of the year in Vermont, for the deer season is now on and there are many hunters in the woods.

Miss Loughran would probably not have paid more than passing attention to the shot had she not heard immediately afterward a heavy body crash wildly through the undergrowth and the sound of a rifle was turned around in some alarm, and in doing so lost her balance. To save herself from a fall she clung to the handlebars.

Hardly had she left the wheel when a large black bear burst out of the woods into full view of her. It was evident that the animal was wounded, for it staggered wildly with rage and endeavored to lick its left shoulder.

Miss Loughran made a desperate attempt to remount her wheel. Never before, she said afterward, did her wheel behave so badly. She wobbled for a few minutes, but she was unable to get it into the position of an unbalanced wheel.

REPS. ABOUT TO RECEIVE

Doubts Set at Rest as to Her Ability to Give Receptions.

FULFILLS ALL THE DUTIES.

Receives Hundreds of People in an Afternoon Without Fatigue.

Mrs. McKinley recently gave the inaugural reception of the informal season, which by many was looked forward to as the test as to her powers to fulfill the duties of hostess at the White House.

In the afternoon she received several hundred people in the Red Room without the least show of fatigue appearing, and at the evening reception she was looking fresh and charming. Between the two receptions she entertained a few friends at dinner.

Mrs. McKinley has expressed her intention to do everything expected of her, and intends to hold the usual routine reception regarding the social life, only departing from the ordinary rule in the date of her private receptions, which she has decided to have on Saturday instead of Monday.

There is to be a new rule, however, in regard to the presentation of cards, at all card receptions, which will be that all cards will be enclosed in a card of admission. This has been found necessary to prevent the confusion which results from the fact that many who received cards of invitation took friends with them, thus swelling the attendance to numbers which could not be accommodated.

For some time each incoming administration has discussed the question, but ended in leaving matters to the president. McKinley, Mr. Porter and Mr. Benjamin have decided on the present plan, and hope it will be a success.

All the former ladies of the White House received in the Red Room, but Mrs. McKinley has also made a change. Mrs. McKinley receives all her intimate personal friends in her own room. She sits most of the time. She rarely declines to see her friends, but has a perfect horror of being interrupted. No member of the staff is ever allowed to see and talk with her personally.

Her aunt, Mrs. Saxton, acts as body-guard and is always near her. She sits in a room near the White House. She rarely declines to see her friends, but has a perfect horror of being interrupted. No member of the staff is ever allowed to see and talk with her personally.

DR. COPELAND'S FINAL NOTICE

Of the End of the $5 Period, Nov. 1.—Something About Different Methods for Treating Catarrh.

There is no injustice in the fact that the time of the opportunity under the $5 rate is short, for all who apply for or renew treatment during the month of October are to be treated UNTIL CURED at this rate.

It is entirely just that Doctor Copeland should announce definitely and positively that he cannot and will not extend the rate after November 1st. By the very prominence and emphasis of the announcement he protects his practice absolutely from any criticism on the ground of partiality from those who come after November 1st and are obliged to pay the regular fees.

Under this nominal rate of $5 a month until cured, all receive the same application of the Discovery that has restored to so many thousands their hearing that was given under the regular rates.

HOW THOSE CURED OF DEAFNESS WRITE THEIR GRATITUDE.

A lady who brought her brother to Doctor Copeland, Wednesday, to be cured of his deafness, brought with her this letter, whose cure of Deafness was printed in this paper last week and was illustrated by a picture of the boy department in Enrich's store, where she is employed.

Dear Madam—
Your letter was received asking about whether it was true I was cured of Deafness. I tell you every word is true. I advise your brother to go to Doctor Copeland. I am positive he will cure him. After I had been going for some time to these physicians to be cured of Deafness I said to my mother, "I am sure I will get cured." She says, "How can you tell?" I said, "I can feel that I will be cured." Two weeks after that time my hearing came back in my right ear, which had been deaf for some time; then it came back in my left ear, which had been entirely deaf for eighteen years—ever since I had the Scarlet Fever when a child. In that ear I can hear a clock tick now two feet away when I hold my right ear shut. I could write you ten pages and then I would be unable to express my joy and happiness.

(Signed) MISS MARIE WINTERL, 336 East 54th Street, New York City.

Charles Detlefsen, 331 Carroll Street, Brooklyn: "I was totally deaf when I came to the Copeland physicians. They cured my deafness in my ears which sounded like the beating of many drums or the hammering on some hollow metal. My family physician, one of the best in Brooklyn, sent me to the Eye and Ear Infirmary, but I got no help there. When Doctor Copeland restored my hearing it seemed to me like a new born child. I hear perfectly now."

MRS. HANSON'S CURE OF DROPSY BRINGS HELP TO ANOTHER.

Mrs. Mary Houghton, 327 East 31st St.—"I had not been a well woman since my last child-birth, in May, '95. At that time I was so sick that I thought death was staring me in the face. My feet, hands, thighs and abdomen were swollen. "I tried doctor after doctor in vain. I was examined by surgeons from the University of New York, and they advised me to go to Bellevue Hospital and told me only an operation could save me. "When I laid down and changed my position I could hear the water in my abdomen gurgle and rattle. Not only my feet, but my hands were terribly swollen, and they would pit easily under pressure. The skin was tense and shiny. "At night I would have to sit up in bed, propped up by pillows, to prevent me from smothering. "This was my condition when I happened to read in the paper the report of a cure of Mrs. Peter Hanson, of 316 Bleecker street, by the Copeland physicians. Her case was like mine, and, of course, I went to these doctors. "Their treatment has been wonderful. Like Mrs. Hanson, I have cured, indeed, for gratitude. The swelling has left my limbs. I am to-day wearing my wedding ring for the first time in eighteen months. Mrs. Hanson's cure has the swelling in my finger subsided."

John Mackey Somerset, Bermuda, treated by correspondence at his distant home for deafness and cured.

There has been the man with a snuff that he claimed would cure Catarrh. There has been the man with a blood medicine to be taken internally who claimed that it alone would cure Catarrh. There has been the man with the dry inhalation, and the wet inhalation, and the man with the goodness knows what inhalations, and the man with the spray. There has been the doctor and he the oldest of them all who, by cutting and burning and applying caustics claimed to cure Catarrh. But there is only one method of treatment that has held and is holding to-day the undivided confidence of the intelligent people, the undivided respect of the best part of the medical profession. Three years ago, when the new treatment was announced, Doctor Copeland told in explaining it: "The old orthodox methods were wrong. Cutting and burning is dangerous and ineffective. Strong medicines applied to a Catarrh affected surface are equally dangerous. Strong sprays and powerful spray appliances sometimes drive the Catarrh into the ear, causing inflammation and irritation of the middle ear, and sometimes into the throat and driving the Catarrh down deep into the Bronchial Tubes. The public listened. The profession listened, and how well they listened is shown by the way they adopted the new treatment. How well the treatment has served its purpose is shown by the number who have been cured and by the fact that to-day half a million of people in the country have been under treatment and in ONE SINGLE INSTANCE IN ALL THAT NUMBER HAS THERE RESULTED THE SLIGHTEST PAIN OR THE MINUTEST INJURY. "About the possibility of challenge on this statement be made, that the Copeland treatment is the only treatment for Catarrh that is safe, and which not only single bad result can be traced. "With regard to snuffs and other potent Catarrh remedies, some of them are dangerous, but none of them are worthy of consideration. Not one single case of genuine Catarrh has ever been cured by any one of them."
